Seller assumes all responsibility for listing this item.

Item Specifics - Football Training Equipment & Goals

Type: Goals
 Subtype: 8FT X 4FT
 Condition: Used

With each Ebay sale I make I tell a story about the item and the reason for the sale. I then add the story to my web site www.foggydave.co.uk If you go to my site it will explain why my wife has one leg shorter than the other and more pertinent facts.

I am selling a set of Goalposts complete with net

The goal size is 8ft wide x 4ft high.

The main poles are made of 68mm diameter strong plastic.

They are made by Olympus Sport

call in for a cuppa and a chat.....You are highly honoured Mr Johnny not many people get asked around for tea and cucumber sandwiches. Will you be bringing Mrs C ? Oh and the wife asks that you wear your monocle, and that Mrs C leave her soup spoons at home

Fred of Leicester..... Use it to stop the balls going too far when they go into the goal mouth also if they go in you will know because the net will keep them in.....Fred you are as sharp as ever I am sure no one has thought of this before. Where do you get these wonderful ideas from?

DAY THREE OF SALE

No more bidders as yet, no doubt dozens of eager Ebayers are waiting to pounce at the last minute in the hope of winning.

On my last sale Fanny and Johnny Craddock aka Kharina and Hairy of Bath started to send each other email messages through my web site and Ebay sales this sale is no exception. Johnny started it off by complimenting my wife on day two of the sale, here they go again

My observations are in italic

Fanny Craddock aka K of Bath (Johnny's dearest).....Oh Johnny how could you, I work my fingers to the bone cooking all day and what do you do? You just cavort with loose women..... Oh I say Fanny hold on there, the only thing loose about my wife is a bit of flab on the underarms, the rest is solid 110% muscle.

Johnny C.....When you see me all you see is something to stick a skewer into and baste over a hot grill....I am a man..... I have needs, Oh I know you cook all those exotic dishes for me but I have more basic needs, a man cannot live by cordon blue cooking all the time, I crave for the darker things..... like.....like.....like.....a McDonalds Double Mega whopper Cheese Burger. There I have said it.....Oh and chips!

Fanny C.....Oh Johnny, Johnny, Johnny, I thought we had more than this, How could you talk of such things? I never thought the day would come when I would have heard you say such awful things. When I met you you were in the gutter I dragged you up shoved a skewer up your back bone bought you a monocle and made a slave of you and this is how you repay me you ungrateful wretch.

Johnny C..... Chips, chips,chips,,chips,chips..

Fanny C.....We will have less of that smutty talk young man.

Johnny C.....The only reason I was in the gutter was that you kicked me off my pushbike when you were shopping, and as for being your slave I am master in my own household and what I say goes ok

Fanny C.....Ha Ok Mr Big get your own dinner tonight and don't think I am going to give you pocket money to go to the chip shop.

.....Children, children please stop arguing. I would suggest that you set up your own web site to talk to each other. I do know though that your communication system i.e. through a proxy is not unique. Some married friends of mine actually talk to each other more on mobile phones than face to face. He will not shout downstairs "Where are my clean socks" but will ring her up, she will then scream up the stairs "There where they always are just look" because she forgot to charge her batteries. This has even extended to a casual "Would you pass the salt my love" across the dining table. One evening they had a "phone" party where everyone talked to each other through their phones, this was though abandoned when no one could hear anything above the din of cell phones ringing.

DAY FOUR OF SALE

I think Fanny and Johnny must have made up as I have received no more emails, either that or she has used her martial art skills with the soup spoons or he may have been skewered through the heart maybe Johnny is no more. We must wait and see

More suggestions coming in even as I type,another from Fred.

Fred of Leicester.....Turn the goal over so that the base is the upright so giving a 3 ft high goal, suitable for very small men and foot ball playing whippets*Fred this is indeed thinking outside the envelope, in fact outside the parcel.*

No suggestions from Delores of Soho I think this one has stumped even her. Thank goodness.

Brenda Bucket of Ibstock.....Tie it behind our caravan to catch all the bits that.....hang on a minute..RAY wash that coal....NOW.....sorry had to keep the hubby in check.....where was IOh yesTo catch all the bits that fall of when we are towing it. Like warped doors, floors, etc.....Brenda is there anything left on your caravan apart from the chassis when you get to the camp site??

Fred of Leicester When water skiing tow the goal upside down behind the skier so that when they fall off the net will catch them and so save fuel going back to collect them, and it will also catch fish for Après Ski barbecue later*Fred I am very impressed, be very careful your brain does not overheat, I think we must forget envelope, even parcel, just think Post Office.*

DAY FIVE OF SALE

Not much interest shown yet.

Mmmmmmmmmmm..... thinks.....Motivation.....

Ask yourself why we did not qualify for the European cup, also the last world cup was also a bit of a disaster.

Could it be that the budding young Beckhams and Roonies are not being given the support they so badly deserve? What we need to do is nurture the football ethos at the earliest opportunity, and what earlier opportunity could there be than at conception , why not erect these posts over your bed as in a four poster.

Possibly draping it with the shirts of your favourite England players. Then nine months later instead of using a birthing pool use this as a birthing goal, just think the first thing your budding Stanley Mathews will see is the back of the net, what inspiration.

But it need not stop there you could turn the goal upside down and use the netting as a crib. Then when he is older tie it on a bit of rope over his cot and use it as a mobile. Put wheels on the ends and use it as a pushchair and before long your young Pele will be kicking the cat all around the kitchen.

Instead of learning to speak you give him a refs whistle and teach him Morse code. Why not implant a whistle in place of his tonsils?

think?

On 01-Jul-08 at 06:27:39 BST, seller added the following information:

DAY NINE OF SALE

Well this is going quite nicely, but!! could it go better??

Just think of the wonderful future you are denying your son or daughter just because you would not bid on these goal posts. You may think your child does not want this goal set but how do you know.

Picture this.

You set up the goal posts with a football on the lawn beneath your child's bedroom window. You then coax the young one away from the X box and Tour Of Duty 4 or Doom 3 which he/she has been playing for the last two days and tell him/her to look outside. As the tears run down over sallow cheeks (These are not tears of joy but watering eyes because they have not seen sunlight for two days) and with a yell of delight they will hobble on weakened legs (two days laying on the bed) down the stairs and into the light. This light will not just be from the sun but from inside themselves as they see that this is what they have been waiting for all their lives. Forget X boxes, Wii , mobile phones and U Tube. This is real, this is round, this is a football, and that wonderful oblong thing that my parents so thoughtfully bought off Ebay is the goal. Think how proud this will make you feel.

Also think how envious your neighbours will be when they see this wonderful gift on your lawn and not theirs, and have to explain to their offspring why you as wonderful parents bought this for your kids and they as parental failures have let them down.

Go on, make a bid, you know you owe it to your wonderful children, and the future of English football, when once again we may hold our heads high as world champions. When we can proudly walk the streets of European capitals in our Union Jack shorts yelling abuse at these inferior people because,

a) They did not win the cup.

I suppose it could also be because,

b) We are blind drunk.

c) They do not speak English.

OK so maybe running about half naked in Union Jack shorts does not work for you so think of it another way. If your child is playing football with this wonderful goal set, and with all his new found friends, then they are not watching television or playing computer games. This will save electricity which in turn will reduce the output of the power stations, which will mean less carbon emissions, which will mean less global warming. So by buying these posts you could save the world, or at least give it a millisecond longer to live. So just think of yourself as an Eco Warrior and bid now.

I hope you enjoyed reading the story, I certainly enjoyed writing it. If you would like to read more just go to my website where you will learn about my wife, life, and other Ebay sales. I will be listing another item with a story in a few weeks time .

All the best Dave.
